27 IS "DEADLINE"

Order Follows Repeal of Railroad Plan For Substitute Reduction

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON—A positive order was issued by the Interstate Commerce commission today requiring railroads to put the approximately 16 per cent decrease in hay and grain rates into effect on or before next Dec. 27.

The order follows up the decision given Oct. 20, by the commission which declared grain and hay rates from the Mississippi valley to the Pacific coast unreasonably high but which did not carry compulsory order.

The order decision instructs the railroads to make the reduction by Nov. 20, which was not done because the railroads opened negotiations with the commission stating that a 10 per cent decrease in freight rates on all agricultural commodities be substituted.

The commission by the order issued today disregarded the compromise suggested by the railroads and insisted on the larger decrease on hay and grain rates mandatory upon the railroads.

The order passed today made special provision for the hay and grain rates. The original decision required the railroads to reduce the rates on the commodities concerned by 16 per cent. The commission today ordered that the rates on hay and grain be reduced by 16 per cent on the territory between the Mississippi and the Pacific coast.

Arthur J. Balfour.

Arthur J. Balfour, one of the

Dietz Makes Damage Plea
Here TodayPardon Board Adjourns
Without Taking Final Action On Case

The pardon board adjourned today without taking final action on the claim of John Dietz for $5,000 damages from the state for alleged false imprisonment. At a meeting to be held next Monday the board will determine its action on the claim.

The meeting today was closed, and the public denied admittance.
It is known that Dietz continued to maintain that he had never killed Deputy Sheriff Oscar Harp, for whose death he was serving a life prison term before his pardon by Governor Blair.

He told the board that most persons connected with the case, in his opinion, had little regard for the truth.

The meeting will be held every

Women's building. All interested are urged to attend. Students are requested to register with Miss Friedman, secretary of the association.

have been convicted by the state conservator hunters were apprehended in the woods previous to the opening of the deer season were exceptionally few."

"Strong Man Of France" Defends
Military PoliciesARISTIDE BRIAND, premier of France and head of the French delegation.J. Weller Long Wins Verdict
Over HerzfeldFormer Secretary of the Equity Wins Suit Over
Waupaca Man

WAUPACA, Wis.—Another chapter in the bitter fight between the two former factions of the American Society of Equity was brought to a close here Saturday when a jury sitting in circuit court brought in a special verdict in favor of J. Weller Long and against J. Fred Herzfeld, of this county.

The action grew out of a letter written by Herzfeld to Fred Schoenfeld, of the town of Royaltown, in this county on January 31, 1920, in which Herzfeld was charged with being a member of the American Society of Equity, and with being a traitor to the American people.

The letter, so Mr. Schoenfeld testified, was shown to members of the town board of the town of Royaltown and through a friend of Mr. Long initially reached him.

Mr. Herzfeld claimed the letter was written in god faith and that he had received part of his information in meetings with J. N. Titmore and James Clemmons, and the letter was written in the hope of settling the controversy.

The verdict of the jury is a sweeping victory for J. Weller Long and removes from the minds of all present any question of wrong doing on the part of Mr. Long while he was Secretary and Treasurer of the National Union. Besides the defendant himself, he called as witnesses J. N. Titmore, James Clemmons, E. C. Mason, a certified public accountant from Madison, and after a thorough direct and cross examination, these witnesses were unable to show that Mr. Long ever received a penny or a piece of merchandise that did not belong to him.

The trial lasted almost two days and the court room was crowded most of the time with farmers who had come in to hear the trial, including members of the county board when they were not in session.

Outside counsel were called into the case which enveloped the proceedings. Arthur H. Seuer, of St.
Paul, Minn., and J. L. Johns, of Marion, and J. L. Johns, of Appleton, represented the plaintiff and M. G. W-eberlin of Eberlein & Larson, of Shawano, represented the defendant. Judge Byron B. Park, of Stevens Point presided during the trial and will hear motions for judgment at a later date.

Offense is Defence
Says Rev. Worcester

"Offense is the only satisfactory means of defense," said the Rev. E.
S. Worcester in his Sunday morning sermon at the First Congregational church. Purely defensive armament is no longer possible according to the Rev. Worcester.

"What do we mean by defense?"
he asked. "Nations build for defense, their defense becomes an offense to other nations, who in turn, create more weapons of offense in their effort to protect themselves, thus producing a continual see-saw between nations."

Cut In Land Forces Pledged
By Big Powers at Conference;
Briand Sees German PerilFrench Premier in Strong Defense of Military Policy at Conference

ANXIOUS FOR PEACE

Assails Story That France Is Seeking Military Ascendency in Europe

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Germany, while apparently disarmed, Premier Briand told the armament conference today, could with her present machinery raise an army of 6,000, 000 or 7,000,000 men.

At least 250,000 Germans were receiving daily military instructions
he added.

Although a part of Germany evidently wants peace and is ready to get back to peaceful pursuits, the French premier declared another portion headed by the Ludendorffs and others of the military caste is continuing to preach the old Prussian doctrines.

France, Premier Briand said, proposed further reductions in her army which would bring it to half its former strength, but still leave, of course, the force which he contended was necessary to assure her security.

The picturesque "strong man of France," was the drawing card which packed Memorial Hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution with a gathering of distinguished notables.

Premier Briand began by saying the government was anxious to take all measures possible to assure a lasting peace.

France could not put down her arms under present circumstances, declared Mr. Briand, because of conditions closely touching her national integrity.

Security Needed, Plea.
He said that because of conditions of instability France must measure them with reference to the consequences to her own security.

Before it could appraise the situation, said Mr. Briand, must see France through unclouded glasses before it could appraise the situation in its true light. The picture presented by Europe after the victory was hard to visualize,
he added.

Mr. Briand had said, he continued, that France sought military ascendency in Europe, but he asserted the imputation was only a cruel reproach, especially coming after her record in the war.

Everyone who knows France knows the truth of the accusation. He asserted that if ever there was a country committed to peace it was France.

But he added, since the war, his country had gone through many de-ceptions and had seen Germany refuse to perform her obligations.

Assailing with all his power that France was the foe of no nation,
Mr. Briand said his government wanted continued the real peace with Germany. In Germany, he said, there were numerous people who were sincerely a peace founded by democratic institutions and he declared it was that sort of Germany to which the world must look for hope.

But, he asked, how could France ignore "the other Germany of the Ludendorffs?"
The old imperial party he declared, had tried repeatedly to regain control.

As an example, M. Briand read several passages from the memoirs of Ludendorff regarding Germany's aspirations for world conquest.
Among these citations was Ludendorff's declaration that the institution of war was a creation of God.

Throwing the Ludendorff manuscript dramatically upon the table,
Mr. Briand declared it should convince the world what was being said at the door of France.

Cites Sacrifice of France.
"I shall endeavor to present the situation, with its true genuine face to show that France is more ready than any other country to direct her steps in the path of higher peace. Nothing could be more pleasant than to tell you this. We bring here sacrifices. We have suffered much in the war, we have fought a great battle but we must regard now our own permanent security."

"Let me explain for France that if you want to make peace it must be made by two people, you and your neighbor. I speak clearly of land armaments because there is a situation which you have no right to neglect. It is necessary that besides physical disarmament there should be a general atmosphere of peace."

"Unless the people rise up, we are going to lose our intercollegiate game football," said A. J. Elliott of Northwestern University, in an address to the Kiwanis club Monday noon.

"Gambling is breaking out in the colleges and universities that ought to be considered by our business men, for no business man wants to build on these foundations," Mr. Elliott said that he believed the returned soldier had much to do with this spirit.

"We cannot help but to expect the returned soldier in his reactions to have little religious convictions.
You can challenge the best element in Wisconsin to block that out.
We're never going to solve this col-

Mr. Elliott then told how the High school copied the worst acts of received a turkey in the drawing of the prize of the club offered each

Hughes Says Policy is for Small

"For Defense Only"

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Acting in unison, spokesmen of the great powers at the arms conference today pledged themselves to reduction of land armaments but according to the varying conditions which they outlined as affecting their assurances of national security.

In a dramatic hour, Aristide Briand, seven times premier of France, outlined the fears of France of an attempt at restoration of Prussianism in the former central European empires and Arthur James Balfour, heading the British delegation, rose in his place and in solemn words practically pledged Great Britain to the aid of France in any future threat of the lust of military domination.

Japan wants only such an army,
Baron Kato of the Japanese delegation told the conference as was "absolutely necessary for purely defensive purposes necessitated by the Far Eastern situation."

Two Shot By Guard of Mails

U. S. Marines Injure Two Men On Mail Train at De Pere, Wis.

SAID TO BE TRAMPS

Victims Mistake Mail Car For Blind Baggage; One Man Escapes

MILWAUKEE — One man was shot and seriously wounded, and a second slightly wounded by a U. S. marine, acting as guard on a mail car, on a Northwestern road train headed for Milwaukee, early on Sunday.

The shooting, the first to be reported since Postmaster General Hayes adopted the policy of placing armed marines aboard trains to protect the U. S. mail, took place on the outskirts of the railroad yards at De Pere.

A train, headed for Milwaukee, stopped in the De Pere yards to take on water. Two marine guards were in charge of the mail car.

Two men, said by the police of De Pere to be tramps, approached the train, with the intention, it is asserted, of riding to Milwaukee. The men, according to the statement to the police of the one who was wounded seriously, intended to secure a place on the bumpers of the baggage car.

Mistaking the mail car for a baggage car, the men ran to the trucks, and attempted to climb on.

The marines in charge shouted to them to get away, and when they did not retreat, they opened fire.

One of the men, giving the name of Otto Lambert, according to the De Pere police, was hit four times.

The second man was also hit, but the bullet crashed against a watch he carried, and prevented him from being seriously injured.

The second man escaped, and his name could not be learned from his companion.

The wounded man was removed to a hospital at Green Bay for attention by surgeons.

Gilmore Writes Article in October Law Review

"The great weight of authority in Wisconsin law courts is in favor of denying relief to beneficiaries in cases of imputed negligence," writes Prof. Eugene E. Gilmore of the Law School of the University of Wisconsin in the October issue of the Wisconsin Law Review.

Beatitudes Point Way to Happiness, Says Kent

By the Beatitudes, Jesus pointed out to the people assembled on Mount Sinai the way to superlative happiness, instead of laying down set rules of conduct, Prof. Charles Foster Kent of Yale university told the congregation of Christ Presbyterian church Sunday. In Professor Kent's interpretation of the teachings of Jesus the point was stressed that Jesus "put first things first," and by this means was able to convince his congregations that those willing to learn would gain superlative happiness.

"There is no one from whom we cannot learn something," Professor Kent asserted. "Those who are willing to learn from others will reap the reward of happiness, while those who think they know all will be unhappy."

Says Briand Demands Security of France

STRASBURG—Premier Briand will declare for guarantees necessary for the security of France at the Washington conference, Minister of War Bathou said in an address here. France, he said, was ready to accept the limitation of land armaments, on certain conditions, such as the complete disarmament of Germany. Before any disarmament by France it would be necessary to place Germany in a position where it would be impossible for her to endanger the peace of the world. It was useless to repeat, he added, that France had suffered too much from war to dream of any further conflict.

Can a Contract Keep Jack Away From Pretty Marilyn?

Marilyn Miller and Jack Pickford.

NEW YORK—A battle in the courts to determine whether Jack Pickford, motion picture star, and Marilyn Miller of musical comedy and roof garden fame, may marry is a prospect of the winter months.

Lined up against the two, who are said to be engaged, is no former mate, no angry parent, or none of the usual obstacles thrown in the paths of the matrimonially inclined. It is a contract, signed by Miss Miller and held by a determined manager, Flo Ziegfeld, that must be tested out before the ceremony can be performed.

Miss Miller signed an agreement not to marry for four years and the agreement, Ziegfeld says, must be lived up to. On the other hand attorneys for the beauty and others who have interested themselves in her predicament, say that such a contract will never be held legal. An agreement not to marry, the legal lights say, is an agreement made against "public policy" and would be so held by the courts.

When the case comes to trial the contract will be the matter at issue, but for Marilyn Miller and Jack Pickford the issue will be one as to whether their engagement must last four years or if a ceremony may be performed in June.

Ziegfeld is quoted as saying that he does not believe Miss Miller intends to marry and that, if she does, the contract will prevent her.

Atty. Francis McGarvey, an authority on theatrical contracts, is of the opinion that the stipulation forbidding marriage is "against public policy" and would be so held in court.

In other words, if a stage luminary should promise to "love, honor and obey" her idol for the rest of her life, the manager's cruel clause could not prevent it.

And Broadway is waiting for a sign from Marvellous Marilyn, who wants to try the marital yoke once more.

For Old Dan Cupid is no respecter of persons or laws, and he simply snickers at a theatrical contract.

Restlessness Is Search For Deeper Things

"Come out of the crowd and climb if you want to be leaders," advised A. J. Elliott, secretary of the Northwestern Y. M. C. A. district, at the Badger club Sunday evening. Speaking of the university, he said: "The great restlessness and search for pleasures that characterize the students, is really a craving for something deeper. Too many act, not from their own thinking, but from the influence of the crowd. Let me pick twelve men from among the students and we can solve the moral problems of the university."

"Extravagant pleasures are straining the better impulses of university students, and to make matters worse, our high schools are following their lead, imitating the worst phases."

Tidewater Conference May Be Called Here

A conference of all organizations interested in the promotion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association may be initiated in Madison. A similar conference was held in Minneapolis. It is proposed to have Gov. J. J. Blaine assist state organizations in calling such a conference of civic bodies, farm organizations and trade associations to discuss the progress which has been made to date with reference to the project. J. C. D. Mack, state engineer, C. A. Lamoreaux, Ashland, and William George Bruce, Milwaukee, all active members of the Wisconsin commission, will play an important part with the executive committee in bringing the subject up for consideration at the conference which will probably be called the first of the year.

Nations Must 'Know' God to Get Peace

Church People Asleep, Says Rev. Wallace; World's Needs Thought

"There are a great many good folks in the church who are asleep," said Rev. J. Sherman Wallace at the First Baptist church Sunday. "They do not know what the church is doing in its wider activities and relations. They do not know what is going on in the church. The church is asleep! It must awake to the knowledge of the needs of the world."

"The world is seeking peace. The Disarmament Conference is proof of this. The world can never know permanent peace until the world knows God. The greatest sin of this age is thoughtlessness, the 'should worry' attitude. There is a disinclination of the people to think seriously."

"The world needs to think. When men think they will find God. Who can study the stars, science or natural law and think, without finding God?"

The chief business of the church is to reveal God and to bring people into its fold. I don't like sensation, but I am willing to try or do anything to bring people to Christ. There is no conflict between religion and science. If there is a conflict it is waged between the old science and the new science. The church must awake to the unlimited power of God."

Opening of Taycheedah Reformatory Delayed

The Taycheedah reformatory for women has again had to postpone the opening of its doors. Delay in the delivery of equipment will prevent the institution from accepting inmates before Jan. 1, according to M. J. Tappins, secretary of the state board of control. The reformatory will hold about 30 when opened and is badly needed according to the judges of the state.

Goddard Is Added to Central Life Staff

The state office of the Central Life has added to its sales force A. L. Goddard, well known in Madison and university circles. Mr. Goddard graduated from the engineering department of the university in 1896.

Since that time he has had varied experience as an engineer, factory manager and manufacturer. His sales work for the Central Life will be confined mostly to the city of Madison.

In other words, if a stage luminary should promise to "love, honor and obey" her idol for the rest of her life, the manager's cruel clause could not prevent it.

And Broadway is waiting for a sign from Marvellous Marilyn, who wants to try the marital yoke once more.

One of the number admitted shooting and killing Paul J. Loberg, Chicago jeweler. One of them, Joseph Shean, was shot and captured while he was robbing a filling station in Chicago. The assessed valuation this year was raised only $1,115,484 over that of a year ago.

"Lost Romance" at the Majestic Story of Love and Marriage

Does romance end with marriage? Does the nuptial vow spell the end of the thing that is vital to a woman's happiness? These are the questions which are delightfully answered in William de Mille's new Paramount production, "The Lost Romance," which was auspiciously displayed at the Majestic theatre, last night.

In the story a young wife is on the point of deserting her husband for his best friend when the sudden disappearance of her child awakens her to the real ties that bind and a broader sense of the real meaning of life and love end romance.

The Harmony Three a harmony trio of clever boys put over several harmony and comedy numbers. A two reel Christie Comedy "Nothing Like It," and latest International News are also showing.

KENT TO SPEAK ON MONDAY AT RELIGIOUS MEET

Two Other Addresses Will Reconcile Science and Religion

An address by Prof. Charles Foster Kent of Yale university on "The Democracy of the Prophets and Jesus," the first of the talks, will open the campus religious convocation, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Professor Kent will speak on "The Place of Religion in the Life of an Educated Man" in his second talk to be given Monday evening in Music hall at 8 o'clock. At this time questions will be welcomed by the speaker. He will speak on "The Interpretation of the Bible" at a luncheon in Lathrop hall Tuesday noon, and the closing address will be given at Wesley hall at 8 p. m., Tuesday. His subject for this address is "The Dramatic Interpretation of the Bible."

Brought by Council Professor Kent, who is touring the country on a year's leave of absence from Yale, has been brought here by the Campus Religious council, an organization comprised of several church groups and members of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. He recently delivered a series of lectures at the University of Minnesota.

Speeches during the convocation will be along the fundamental idea that science and religion are not incompatible.

New York Man Gets Gale Scholarship

The Zona Gale scholarship, first announced last August as an experiment in specialized education, has been awarded for this year to R. P. Weber of Brooklyn, New York. One scholarship each year, amounting to $700, is to be granted to some student with marked ability in special fields, but lacking the usual entrance requirements for a college course.

Mr. Weber was recommended by a former Wisconsin graduate for ability in literature and music, and the recommendation is supported by such men as Wallace Irwin, Julian Street, and John Farrar, editor of the Bookman. Weber completed only two years of high school, finances preventing him from finishing his course.

This experiment in specialization has attracted much press notice, and will be watched as a possible basis for changing the arbitrary entrance requirements to all courses. The committee of administration of the fund consists of Prof. M. V. O'Shea, Dean Harry Glickson, Prof. V. A. C. Henmon, Prof. C. E. Mendenhall, and Prof. W. E. Leonard.

Deserted Village Looks Like County Fair beside Madison

Deserted, dead, forlorn, forsaken. Goldsmith might just as well have meant Madison during the Chicago game when he said: "Sweet smiling village, loveliest of the lawn. Thy sports are fled and all thy charms withdrawn, And desolation addens all thy green."

There is nothing very certain about the "green," or the "lawn," but as for "all the sports"—they went on the special Friday noon, or most of them did. The only ones who didn't, had been sports once too often before.

State street's like Lover's lane in the bright sunshine, but even the sunshine must have gone on the special to see that game. Two places in the "loveliest village" were at least thronged with human beings. Those more hopeful souls plodded to the door of the gym, and with Polly-Anne in their voices, simpered, "We can see the game for 10 cents." But even the heroic attempt to be cheerful became weaker and weaker, until at 4 o'clock the crowd emerged, saying not a word.

The rest of the school—more noble souls—swathed their emotions in study. Apparently an extra library force was put on to fulfill the eager demand of the assembled multitude for sources of information. Really, the old lib hasn't been so overworked for many a day.

At least three different people said they hadn't noticed it the other time they went over to study. Poor observation, no doubt.

Ingrown Toe Nail Turns Out Itself

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate to the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

Faculty Gets Under Way on Union Drive

Canvassing for Memorial is Organized by Prof. Sharp

The faculty drive for the Memorial Union is well under way. The various schools and colleges have been organized under Prof. Frank Sharp or the philosophy department, and each one has favorable reports as far as the work has gone.

"Everything is in good shape in the College of Agriculture," said Prof. Edward Jones, in charge of that part of the work. "We have canvassed about one-third of those who did not subscribe before, and have received many $100 subscriptions. Most of those who gave before have doubled their pledges this time."

$1,000 Offered

Gamma Alpha, honorary graduate science fraternity, have $1,000 which they are willing to turn over to the Memorial Union fund, if they may be assured a place for their archives and their meetings in the new building. They also feel that this interest in the Memorial Union is a personal tribute of the organization to those of their number who died in the service.

"That is just what the Memorial Union is for," was the reply made by Dean Scott H. Goodnight, when the proposition was presented to him.

Hard Work Done

"We of the engineering school are working pretty hard, and things are going to be all right by the first of the week. At present many of our faculty are in Milwaukee, so that I can give no definite report until Tuesday or Wednesday," said Prof. L. Van Hagen of the engineering faculty.

The canvassing personnel of the Economics department met yesterday with Professor E. A. Ross, and definite plans were made to start in on Monday. The College of Letters and Science has been divided into departments and the various department heads have charge of their particular divisions.

Toyland Is Moving Back Into Madison

Doll Colony Makes Annual Debut in Local Stores

Toyland, the colony of dolls, has opened its season in Madison. Dolls from all parts of America, England, France, Germany and Japan have arrived for the Christmas season.

They came in special trains of cars, automobiles, carriages and even on rocking horses. Some of the mechanical toys are here for the first time since the beginning of the world war.

American dolls, it was stated, are growing in popularity. This season American made dolls are selling in number about even with the foreign make.

Toys are becoming more and more to take the form of playthings which are not only novelties, but also instructive and constructive articles which help to develop the child's mind, according to one manager. Parents look more to the toys which they think will benefit the children.

Mrs. Caton to Sing Before Chicago Club

Member of U. W. School of Music to Appear in Program

SECOND APPEARANCE

Work at First Event Wins Praise By Critics of Musical Magazine

BY JULIA VAN AKEN
Miss Catherine D. Caton, who recently joined the staff of the University of Wisconsin school of music, and who has been invited to sing at the Windsor Park Women's club of Chicago, Mrs. Caton is a member of the Chicago Music club, one of the largest and most active in the city.

A review and criticism of Mrs. Caton's program given in the Windsor Park club rooms, Tuesday, Nov. 16, appears in the Music News, a magazine printed in Chicago. The following appreciation of her voice is given:

"We had the pleasure of hearing Glenore D. Caton, of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin school of music. Her program was beautiful. From Don Giovanni, Mozart; the Well, Richard Wagner; the aria from Joshua, Handel; and the aria from Jephtha, Handel. Mrs. Caton's stage presence is such that her audience is charmed at once. Her voice is increasing in flexibility and resonance. She sang difficult passages with great understanding and beautiful voice."

Signed, Mrs. W. M. Douglas, board of directors.
Mrs. Caton will also appear in concert in Sheboygan in the near future.

SWIFT AND CO. MAN RESTORED

Popular Salesman Declares Tanlac Put Him on his Feet—In Perfect Health

"I want to express my appreciation of the wonderful good Tanlac has done me, and I think that it is without doubt the greatest medicine made," said Philip M. Barnes, well known salesman for Swift & Co. "Before I took my present position I was in charge of several states and was on the go all the time. I must have overdone myself, for my health began giving way, and I got in a badly rundown condition. I lost my appetite, suffered from indigestion and heartburn, and bloated so with gas after every meal that it nearly worried me to death. I was almost worn to a frazzle, and had headaches that made life miserable for me. I was so nervous and restless I couldn't half sleep at night, and felt depressed and fagged out all the time.

"While traveling in Ohio I heard Tanlac praised so highly that I had a hunch it would help me, and my faith in the medicine increased as I continued to take it, for I improved at such a rapid rate that it only took four bottles to set me right. The medicine gave me a wonderful appetite and sent me right up fifteen pounds in weight. The nervousness left me, my sleep became sound and refreshing, and I simply felt like a new man. I'm brimful of new life and energy and feel fine all the time now, and I can say for Tanlac that it certainly backed up its reputation in my case." Tanlac is sold in Madison by the Lucky Pharmacies and by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

The Golden Girl

A STORY OF GYPSY LOVE
By PHYLLIS S. PHILLIPS

THE NIGHT OF THE DANCE.

The first streaks of dawn found Lona still wide awake, after a restless night passed in thoughts that had caused her to toss from side to side on her blanket bed, and to clatter, now and then, as though with a chill. She should not explain this restlessness of hers in the least, and through the long still hours of the night she lay staring up at the flap of her tent.

Once she got up and lighted a candle. Then she drew but a small, square box from a bundle of possessions, opened it and stared at its contents, fascinated.

There was a tiny baby petticoat, delicately embroidered, and with the initial "L" worked on the hem in palest blue silk. A petticoat which her mother had made for her before she was born and which Lona had carefully treasured through the years. It was the only bit of finery she had ever possessed. There was also a tiny white silk cap which had once graced her head, and two gold baby pins, her only jewelry. Often had Lona wondered whether her care-free, dazzling mother had really ever had the patience to sit down and sew these articles herself, or whether she had not at some time before she died, Lona, was born, wheeled the little cap and petticoat from some fine Gorgio lady of high degree. She wondered, now, even as she had, throughout the years. These treasured belongings were her only link with that mysterious past of hers, in which her mother and herself figured, and concerning which she seemed to have been kept more or less in ignorance.

After looking at her treasures for a time, she folded them carefully again, put them back in the box, then lay down and tried to sleep. It was nearly dawn when she finally did drop off, yet at the first pale glints of the morning she awakened with a start, unrested, and fully conscious of what lay before her that day.

At high noon the caravans rumbled slowly towards the roof-tops of Wellington. One and all the Romanies were in their holiday attire, as befits every true Romany on fair and festival days.

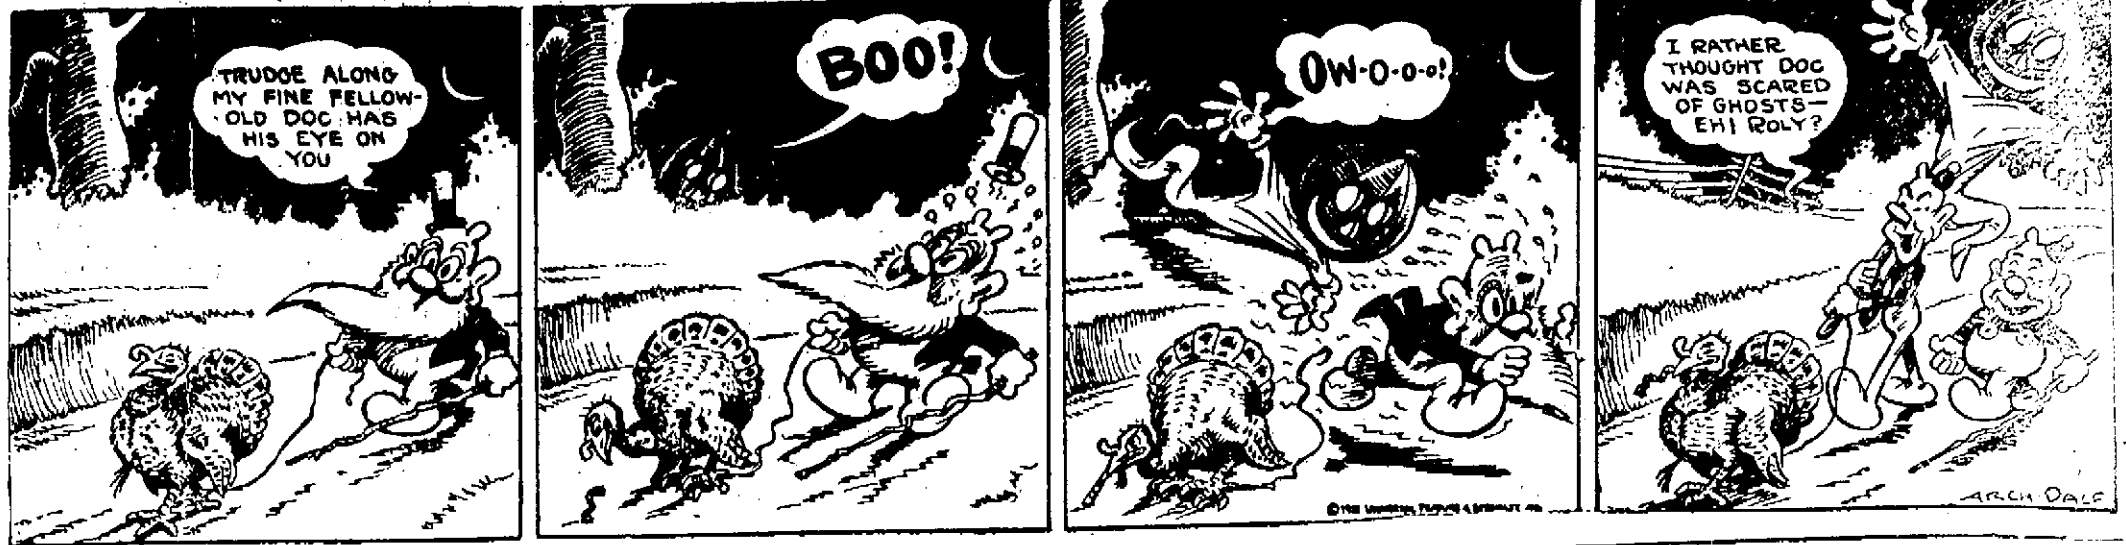

Now, in the middle of the fair grounds was a large platform, on which Lona and one of the men were to dance later on in the day. round this groups of some of the townspeople and many eager-eyed children were already gathered in happy anticipation of the joys to come.

In a small shanty nearby Lona and the rest of the women were busy getting into their costumes, snatching a bite of lunch as they went along for fear that the afternoon and its festivities would cheat them of their food. A calamity, indeed, Lona was in her most gorgeous attire—a costume of many colors—which made her look like a peony in full bloom. She was flushed from excitement, and looked very beautiful.

At 8 o'clock that night everything was in readiness for the big dancing act of the show. Lona, beautiful to behold, sat waiting for her music to start, impatient in every muscle. At Miguel's special request she had not put on any dark make-up which was usual for her to do. His explanation had been that "it is better for us to have one pale face among us, just by way of contrast. Besides, you look ten times more beautiful as you are now, Lona, Princess."

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a freshman in high school. In one of my class there is a boy of whom I think a great deal, but we have never spoken. Could you please tell me how I could say or do something to attract his attention?

None of the boys seem to care for me and it is not because I am ugly for I am considered pretty. In this particular class I sit beside boys, but as I don't care for them, I don't talk to them. Maybe it is because I am too quiet that this boy does not talk to me. He is well-mannered for I can tell from his actions.

Please tell me what to do.
FRESHIE.
Think more about your studies and less about boys. You are too young to attract their attention. Of course I realize that many girls no older than you are popular with boys, but usually they have grown out of their childhood more rapidly than the average. Do not bank too much on the fact that you are "considered pretty." Nine out of every ten girls who write to me say the same thing. Personally I do not think the world is populated with so many beautiful women. Fortunately, however, a beautiful personality goes farther than a beautiful face. If you are patient and wait, boys will notice you after a while and come to you of their own accord. It is useless for you to try to force their attention. Since you have not even talked to your favorite boy, you do not know him very well and you are imagining him to have virtues which exist in your own imagination and which he may not possess at all. You will be happier if you recognize the virtues in the friends you already have and appreciate the good times you have every day.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married five years and cannot get onto my husband's ways. He is very quiet; nothing I say seems to interest him. I often talk of his work, but it is of no interest to me as he is a machinist and I do not understand his work. I was used to a lot of friends before I married. Where we are now I am not very well acquainted and am very lonesome. What could I do to make things more pleasant? He does not believe in parties and is very religious.

LONESOME HOUSEWIFE.
If you are not interested in the work your husband does, you can probably find interest in the personalities of the people with whom he works. Draw him out, if you can, about what they do and say about their joys and sorrows. Many people find the personalities of other people just as fascinating as the characters in story books. You would also find it helpful in drawing closer together to read together. Let your husband choose the books if it pleases him to do so, and you will find much that is of interest to him.

Marriage should not mean that one person should give in entirely to the other. I believe that husband and wife should be free to follow their own inclinations so long as one does not interfere with the personal rights of the other. You should not force your husband to attend parties in the evening, but he should not object to your entertaining ladies in the day time and going to parties in their homes.

Household Hints

MENU HINT
Breakfast: Scrambled Eggs, Toast, Watercress.
Luncheon: Baked Stuffed Eggplant.
Dinner: Boiled Salmon with Egg and Parsley Sauce.
Dessert: Boiled Potatoes, Canned Peas, Cucumber and Onion Salad.

TESTED RECIPES
Baked Stuffed Eggplant—Boil an eggplant for twenty minutes in unsalted water, take out, cut into halves and scoop out the centers, leaving a ball half an inch thick. Chop the portions that you have removed, mix with half a cupful of grated bread crumbs and add two tablespoonfuls of melted bacon fat, one chopped hard boiled egg, two tablespoonfuls each of minced ham and parsley and salt and paprika to taste. Dust the interior of the eggplant with a little salt, put in the filling and brush the top with melted pork fat. Bake in a quick oven for thirty minutes.

Baked Plum Roll—Make a plain pie crust, chill on the ice and roll rather thin. Spread with a little softened butter and arrange halved, pitted plums over the crust. Dust with sugar and add a seasoning of grated nutmeg and ground cinnamon with the grated rind from a small orange. Roll up like jelly roll, brush with beaten egg yolk mixed with a little cold water, and bake in a quick oven until crisp and brown.

DISCOVERIES
To prevent pared fruit from turning dark pour a little lemon juice over it.
A variety of herb vinegars is a handy thing to have on hand in the kitchen.
When making pineapple jam run the slices of pineapple through food chopper.
Boiled salad dressing can be canned, sealed, and it will keep for some time.
Buttermilk makes better biscuit, cornbread and muffins than sweet milk.
To make white-topped poached eggs is a simple trick. Just put a cover on the pan! The steam cooks the film of white over the yolk and makes the eggs most attractive to look at as well as eat. The cover should fit tightly enough to prevent escape of the steam.

Before buying any silk to trim little sister's dress look carefully through the discarded neckties that father and brother have put aside. Often just a touch of bias plaid or inset of dotted material applied on collar and cuffs will afford all the brightening the little garment needs.
GRANDMOTHER SAYS: When darning a large hole sew net over the hole and darn through the net.
Use very fine wire for sewing buttons on heavy overcoats.
Old paint stains on a carpet can be dissolved with spirits of turpentine.
A soft-soap eraser will remove mercury from gold jewelry.
Polish the leather traveling bag with linseed oil.
It is well for one not to try to do too much each day. To do what one can with ease and to let the rest go without qualms or misgivings of any type will bring many days in many lives.

Defeat Saturday Gives Badgers Third Place In 'Big Ten' Standings

Iowa Cinches Title In Win Over Purple

Wisconsin's Percentage in Drop As Romney Boots Field Goal

STANDINGS.

	W.	L.	Pct
Iowa	5	0	1.000
Stanford	4	1	.800
Harvard	4	1	.800
Yale	3	1	.750
Michigan	2	1	.667
Illinois	2	2	.500
Ohio State	1	4	.200
Northwestern	0	5	.000

With Iowa undisputed football champions of the Western conference, Wisconsin must content itself at most with third place.

Chicago's 8 to 0 victory on Saturday has left the university disappointed. There was a general expectancy that the team would be able to open an attack that would beat the Maroon defense and give Wisconsin the victory that would place them in a position to claim a title for the championship for the first time since 1912.

But defeat leaves the Badgers with a bitter taste. They were beaten by a team that was not as good as they were.

Regulars of the varsity team in their last game on Saturday, they were lost to Wisconsin. Their loss will require that the Badgers rebuild their entire team during the coming season. The great gaps left in the line and backfield.

Sam Sundt, the best punter in the conference, and an infallible kicker, graduates after three years. Elliott, who has been a regular for three years, leaves the team. The team's two best backfield men, Gould, who has played in the combination of defense and offense, together with Woods, who has played at half and end in some of his college careers. Bungo goes to the center position leaving a gap in the line. Brader is one of the hardest players in the team. He was with the rest of the team.

His eligibility continues to cut into the regular squad, the Badgers are unable to remedy in a number of backfield losses. Brader, who has played on two teams, is expected to play and will be a valuable asset to the team.

When the last lap of their athletic career starts next spring, Kiley will be holding down second base on the baseball team—as he did last year—and Anderson will be behind the bat with the big mitt once more.

The two sport twins have played an important part in the Catholic college's gridiron success the last three seasons. That they have shared honors about equally is shown by the fact that Kiley was the man who scored Notre Dame's only touchdown against Iowa this year and Anderson's recovering of fumbles at critical moments won the Nebraska game for the Indiana team.

Both men graduate in June and Notre Dame will miss both of them mightily.

His last year's career is expected to be a great defensive player during the present year. Kiley will be back to fill in the tackle position, unless switched to center, which is anticipated. Hofffeld is likely to be changed to tackle from guard to fill in the place left by Brader, and Christensen, who has been at guard where he has been a power in his first year with the team.

Twins in Sport Are These Lads At Notre Dame

Capt. Eddie Anderson of the grid team, above, and Roger Kiley.

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

Two husky athletes at Notre Dame are writing the final football chapter in a college athletic career that reads like fiction.

They are Eddie Anderson and Roger Kiley. A Damon and Pythias combination of the athletic field they have kept close to each other on the field.

They are playing their last season. Anderson is captaining the team and playing end. Kiley is playing the other end and starring. Together they form one of the best pair of ends the season has produced.

Kiley is captain and guard on the Notre Dame basketball team and Anderson—when the season opens—will be giving Captain Kiley his best as the other guard.

When the last lap of their athletic career starts next spring Kiley will be holding down second base on the baseball team—as he did last year—and Anderson will be behind the bat with the big mitt once more.

The two sport twins have played an important part in the Catholic college's gridiron success the last three seasons. That they have shared honors about equally is shown by the fact that Kiley was the man who scored Notre Dame's only touchdown against Iowa this year and Anderson's recovering of fumbles at critical moments won the Nebraska game for the Indiana team.

Both men graduate in June and Notre Dame will miss both of them mightily.

His last year's career is expected to be a great defensive player during the present year. Kiley will be back to fill in the tackle position, unless switched to center, which is anticipated. Hofffeld is likely to be changed to tackle from guard to fill in the place left by Brader, and Christensen, who has been at guard where he has been a power in his first year with the team.

Elliott Holds Second Place In Grid Tally

Devine, Iowa Pilot, Leads Big 10 Scoring; Badger Has 42 Points

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Aubrey Devine, the little All-Western captain and quarterback of the University of Iowa football eleven, western conference champion, led all the big ten stars in scoring during the past season. Devine tallied 55 of the 123 points his team made in championship contests, a record which has not been equaled in the conference in recent years. Devine's record represents nine touchdowns and 14 goals from touchdowns. He led the conference in each of these branches of scoring as well as in the total points. Counting preliminary games his total would be much larger.

Ranking next to Devine was Elliott, Wisconsin halfback, who scored seven touchdowns for 42 points in championship contests, while Locke of Iowa was third and Belding of Iowa fourth, giving the Hawkeyes three of the first four leading scorers of the season.

The following shows the touchdowns, goals, field goals and total points made by the scorers in the conference this season, only conference championship games being included. All but Poley and Belding are backfield men.

Player—Team	TD	G	Total
A. Devine, Ia.	9	14	65
Elliott, Wis.	7	0	42
Locke, Ia.	5	0	30
Belding, Ia.	3	0	18
Taylor, Ohio	3	0	18
Workman, Ohio	3	0	18
Thomas, Chi.	3	0	18
Sundt, Wis.	1	11	17
Brown, Minn.	2	0	12
Romney, Chi.	1	0	6
Poley, Ohio	1	0	6

Devine's work was by no means a surprise for the little quarterback who has earned a great reputation during his three years on the Hawkeyes eleven. He recently was termed by Dr. Williams, Minnesota coach, as "the greatest backfield player, the country has ever known, a man of all-American caliber."

Devine, who lives in De Moines, Ia., was all-Iowa quarterback in high school and has been chosen by virtually every critic as all-conference and all-western quarterback during the past two seasons.

Badgers, Handicapped, Fought Like Tigers Against Odds in Great Game, Says "Roundy"

Weakness Near Goal Line and Costly Fumble Were Fatal Spots in Cardinal Armor; Hard Luck Tagged at Wisconsin's Heels

BY ROUNDY.

Chicago defeated Wisconsin in a hard fought game. My write up last Friday about stated their defeat but for the proper spirit I always pick the Badgers to win. Ask Dad Morgan what I knew about the game.

I know that Sundt was carried off the field last Wednesday night in practice and that Christianson had some busted ribs, and that Tehlil was ailing, and that Hofffeld could not raise his arm an inch, and some other players were not in too good condition but still I picked them to win, and I always will.

Eut Old Man Touchdown was knocking at their back at least four times during the game and if this Badger team had the real punch they should have walked off the field a victor 7 to 0 at whistle time.

There is no doubt that if Williams had not fumbled the ball the Badgers would have scored a touchdown as they were sure were showing an offense that the Stargz men have not seen in a few long years. Chicago was taking time out on each drive to the goal line and holding a short talk as they were up against a drive that they could not stop.

We also worked the ball down near their goal line once more. I thought they should have some plays prepared for just near the goal line if their other formations are blocked, but they hit the line with no avail and Sundt tried an easy chance at the goal from the 20 yard line but failed.

The student body and the Madison body were expecting Gill to trot out on the field to make the winning markers as Gill has only tried two chances at the goal line this year, making a beauty against North Dakota and missing another by inches from a long distance. Gill was the man who should have tried for that goal.

I thought that Wisconsin would at least get a neat trimming from the condition they were in; but they fought like a bunch of tigers and Chicago never came near the goal line with the ball until Sundt left the game and there was no man to back the line up in the proper way. There is no full-back in the west in Sundt's class when it comes to defense playing.

Williams' fumbling the ball on the 7 yard mark and his fumble of another punt that Chicago recovered was a turning point in the game that favored Chicago.

Fumbling should not occur in football. That is one department that we are weak on and that department should be brushed up at once. Look at the way Michigan followed the ball and Chicago was the same.

The Chicago ends were on top of Williams on every punt waiting for him to catch the ball the same as in the Michigan game. It seems as if good smart ends can outguess the Badgers on that point of the game. We are not giving the safety man with the ball the proper support to get away on punts the way they should.

Chicago had all the breaks in the game. The first kickoff that Brumm made for us did not go over 15 yards, robbing us out of about 40 yards right there, where as a rule he kicks it to the goal line.

When Elliott was doing our passing on the screen pass he had to hurry every throw as there were two men on top of him as soon as he got the ball. Under those conditions the open game was impossible.

Williams made a great run in the last minute of play, getting away from all Chicago tacklers except one man. As Rollie is too fast

Caging Team Hampered By Ineligibility

Fans Turn Attention to Cardinal Basket Team; Brumm Out

BY DUKE.

With the conference football season completed, gridiron fans are turning their attentions to the possibilities in the basketball teams from the various universities. Though ineligibilities will hit Wisconsin again this year, taking away some of the cream of the material, the Badgers are expected to put out a caging team that will be a credit to the school. It is too early to look forward to a conference championship, or even to repeat with a tie for those honors as was done last year.

With Doc Meanwell handling the reins again this year, a team of ability can be expected. Meanwell will face the task of whipping into shape a center for his team. Brumm, right tackle on the varsity football team, was wanted for this position, but it is understood that he will not be eligible to play. Johnson, another candidate for the pivoted position, is also ineligible, it is understood.

The major part of the players are working out daily. A few men from the football team, including Tebell, Rollie Williams and Gibson, will report probably tonight or tomorrow for practice. This week will see the season's preparations get well under way.

Pictures Show Illini Pass Hit Ground

COLUMBUS, O.—Much interest was evidenced here today in the claim of some Ohio State followers that Illinois defeated Ohio State in their annual football game here last Saturday by a touchdown on a forward pass play that was completed after the ball had been grounded.

Motion pictures of the game displayed last night showed after the ball had been passed it struck the ground twice before it was scooped up by Walquist who then ran several yards for the only touchdown of the game. Despite the tale told by the moving pictures, Ohio State officials declared today that the Illinois victory probably would stand.

Sport Sparks

Stanford University, in California, has a stadium that rivals in design the famous Yale Bowl.

The reason its reputation has not reached distant parts is that when Prof. C. B. Wing, a Stanford engineer, prepared plans for it, he was at once promised financial backing for its construction, and a request quickly circulated among the students, alumni and Pacific coast friends for $210,000 for the work, produced that sum promptly without outside noise. Professor Wing was thus able to put a full force of workmen on the job and the project was completed in four months, making a record for stadium construction both as to time and cost.

The stadium will seat 65,000 persons.

It abuts the old athletic field of the university. In general layout it resembles the Yale Bowl, but there are no runways in the embankment, as at Yale, the approaches being by flights of steps. Owing to the spacious proportions of the campus there has been no encroachment on the old field, which remains available for sundry uses. Allowance is made in the stadium design for enlargement at any time that may seem desirable. Professor Wing says the present construction is strong enough to last 10,000 years.

George H. Maines, president of the Michigan—Ontario Baseball league, in his report of the league's doings of the past season, shows that more than twenty players from his league have been sent to Class A and Class A leagues. The players were sold at prices ranging from $2,500 to $5,000.

The highest price paid for a Mint league player this year was paid to Flint by the Boston Americans for Pitcher Sam Hodge, twenty years old, a right hander who is said to have brought $5,000. Hayzen Cuyler, twenty-two years old,

Madison High Victor Over LaCrosse, 7-0

Smith Falls On Blocked Punt for Only Score of Contest

BY RAY.

High school football is over with Marinette the state champion. The chances of the LaCrosse high school were shattered Saturday when the River City boys went down to defeat at the hands of Captain Smith's football team of Madison high, the Endresmen coming out of the battle with a 7-0 score.

About 800 witnessed the tilt. The field was covered with snow and it had to be shoveled off in spots to have the field lines visible. LaCrosse kicked off to Walsh who carried the ball to the 40 yard line. The first pass in the game, Walsh to Ed Smith, netted 15 yards. About a few minutes after the game started, Al Pich, Madison half, was carried off the field on account of an injured leg. His knee was hurt before but it was in fine condition when he entered the contest.

The points for Madison were counted in the second period. Madison lost the ball on the 20-yard line and LaCrosse intended to kick it out of danger when Mathison broke through the wall and blocked the punt, the pig-skin bounding several yards behind the goal posts. He fell on it for a touchdown.

In the remainder of the game, both teams fought for a touchdown. LaCrosse improved and the game ended with the score of 7-0. Madison was about 1 yard from the posts and third down in the first period when Walsh through center, but was thrown for a loss.

Although the local High school was defeated twice, the schedule was one of the best in many years as they played most of the hardest teams in the state and came out with a good record. The results of the games will show we have a good team: Madison 7, Alumni 0; Madison 38, Edgerton 0; Madison 23, Beloit 0; Madison 60, Stoughton 0; Madison 14, Eau Claire 7; Madison 0, Chippewa Falls 9; Madison 13, Kenosha 14; Racine game called off on account of sloppy field; Madison 7, LaCrosse 0.

The total points scored by Madison are 162; total by opponents are 30.

Percentage in title play is .714. LaCrosse High school has signed a contract to play Madison next year, Nov. 11, at LaCrosse.

Girls Treat Grid Heroes With Sweets

A 10-pound box of sweets was handed to Coach Otto J. Endres, of the Madison high school, after the LaCrosse-Madison game at Randall field Saturday, for the team; from a group of the high school girls, and admirers of the football heroes. Under the cover was a pretty verse entitled "To Our Team." The top layer was made up in the form of an "M" in yellow, the background being white.

Chips-Woodstock Tilt Off; Play Kaukauna

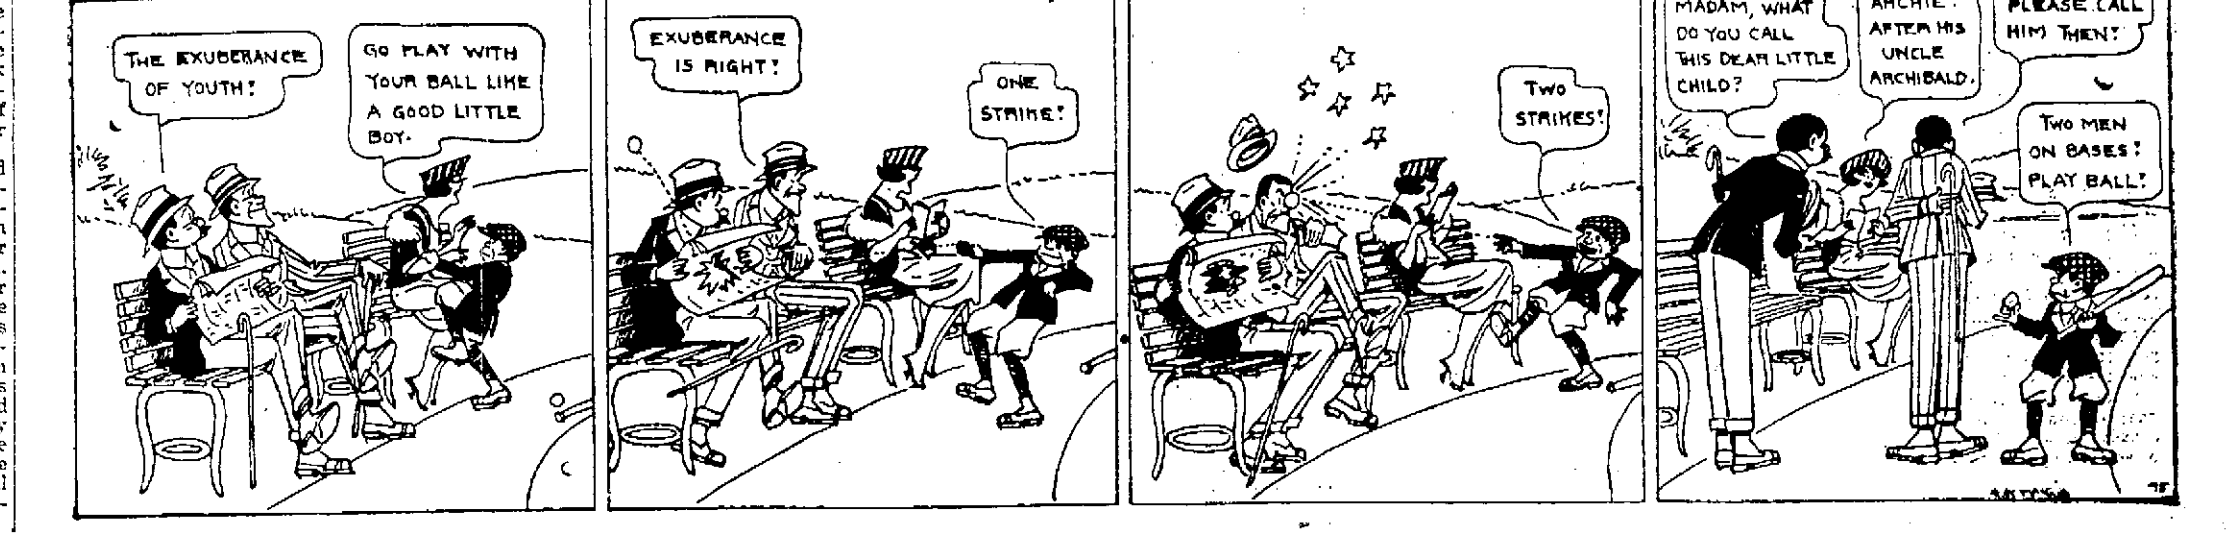

The Dernel Chips-Woodstock Legion football game, scheduled for Sunday, was called off on Saturday, owing to the bad weather and condition of the field. The Chips are preparing to meet the American Legion team of Kaukauna on Thursday in a Thanksgiving Day battle.

Roundy Predicts 82 of 91 Grid Victors

Predicting 82 of 91 winners in conference, inter-sectional, and state high school football, "Roundy" Coughlin on Saturday completed his football work for the year, having missed but 9 winners during the season—four of which were missed on Saturday.

Ohio was beaten by Illinois and Yale by Harvard two upsets in the dope of all writers. Chicago beat Wisconsin. Roundy had Wisconsin doped to win in his column, but we got it pretty straight that his money was on Chicago and that a sealed prediction said the Maroons would win. His other miss on Saturday was in the Ripon-Beloit game, when Beloit defeated Ripon 14 to 0. Roundy will continue his picking of winners through the conference basketball season.

Wheat Prices Take Boost; Receipts Cut

(By the Associated Press)

OATS—Oats started unchanged to 1/4 up May 38 1/2 @ 39 and later advanced all around.
PROVISIONS—Hog values strengthened provisions.

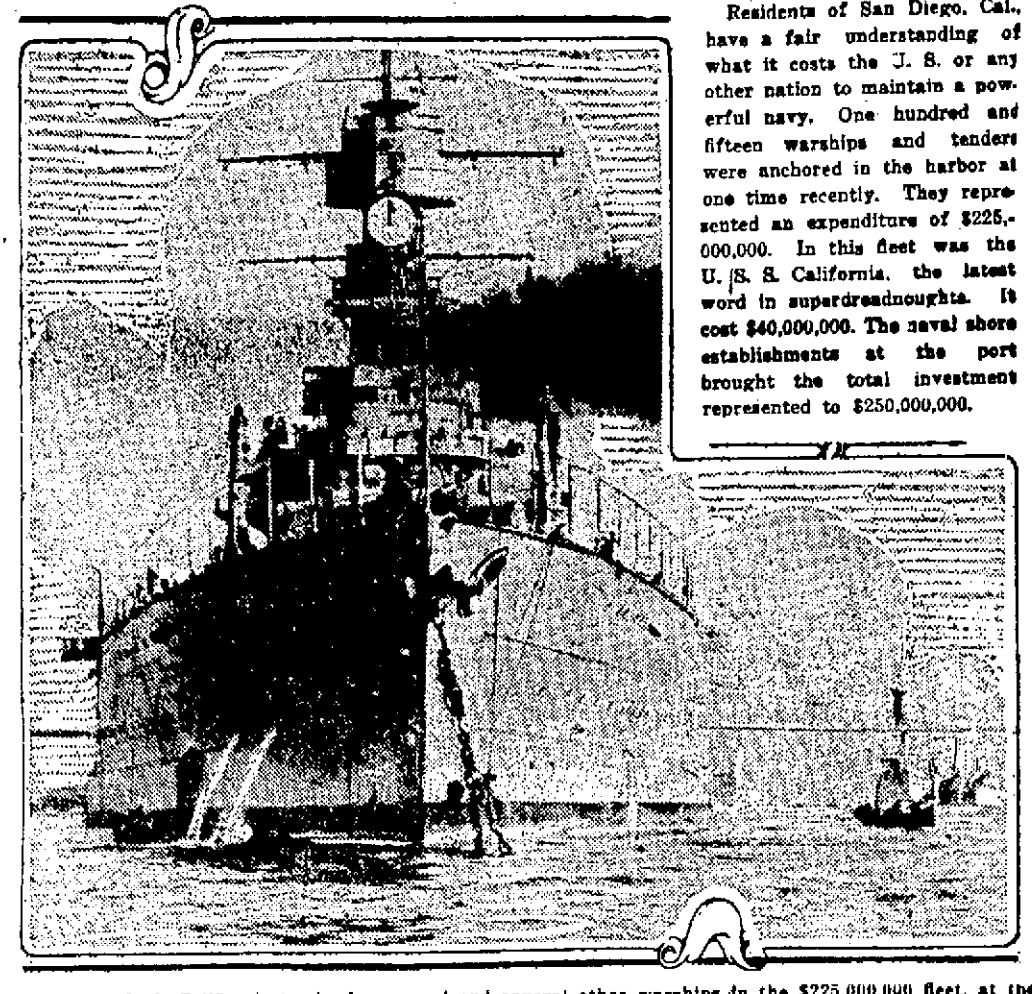

Stock Market is Uncertain; Marks Steady

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK—The stock market continued its recent uncertain course at the opening of today's market. Speculative activity indicated further restraint as a result of latest developments at the armaments conference. Favorites of the oil, equipment and utility types, especially Mexican Petroleum, General Electric, Baldwin Locomotive and American Telephone, were firm to strong but changes among leading rails and steels were mostly at recessions from last week's quotations.
Preliminary foreign exchange rates including German marks were steady.

$225,000,000 WORTH OF UNITED STATES WARSHIPS IN ONE HARBOR PLEA FOR CURTAILING NATIONS' ARMAMENTS

The new U. S. S. California in the foreground and several other warships in the $225,000,000 fleet, at the right of the California in the background.

Residents of San Diego, Cal., have a fair understanding of what it costs the U. S. or any other nation to maintain a powerful navy. One hundred and fifteen warships and tenders were anchored in the harbor at one time recently. They represented an expenditure of $225,000,000. In this fleet was the U. S. S. California, the latest word in superdreadnoughts. It cost $40,000,000. The naval shore establishments at the port brought the total investment represented to $250,000,000.

Lenroot Goes Deer Hunting

SENATOR IRVINE L. LENROOT, of Wisconsin, is being counted on by administration leaders at Washington to cast his vote in favor of seating Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, whose agents and supporters, according to admission of his own counsel, expended $195,000 in his behalf in the 1918 primary campaign.

The fact that Senator Lenroot is now regarded as favorable to Newberry was revealed after a careful canvass of the Republican members. It is believed that not more than half a dozen Republican members will vote with the Democrats to unseat the Michigan Senator. Senator Lenroot is not listed among those who will vote for the unseating resolution.

Senator La Follette will vote to unseat Newberry, it is conceded at Washington, and Senators Borah, Kenyon, Norris, and Ladd will likewise split with their Republican colleagues on the resolution. Senators Capper, McNary and Johnson are listed as doubtful.

Senator Lenroot left Washington early last week for Wisconsin within a few hours of the request of the motion of Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri, to make the Newberry case the business before the Senate. It is understood that Senator Lenroot is in Wisconsin on a "deer-hunting" trip but before returning to Washington he will confer with "stalwart" supporters in Milwaukee and elsewhere concerning plans to fight Senator La Follette and Gov. Blaine in the Republican primaries next year.

The absence of Senator Lenroot and the rank and file of the Republican members was the subject of much comment in the Senate this week. During the entire week, Senator Spencer, who wrote the report exonerating Newberry, was the only Republican to speak in defense of his colleague. Senators Pomerene, Walsh of Montana, and half a dozen other members made a thorough review of the evidence in the case and bitterly assailed the campaign methods which resulted in Newberry's nomination, his subsequent conviction in Michigan with 16 of his campaign workers, and the proceedings to unseat him now under way in the Senate. During most of the debate Senators La Follette, Borah, Norris, Kenyon and Ladd, all of whom are likely to vote against Newberry, were the only Republicans in the chamber with the exception of Senator Spencer, Missouri, and Senator Townsend, Michigan.

It is not known whether Senator Lenroot will return from Wisconsin in time to participate in the vote on the Newberry case. If he is still in Wisconsin on the final roll call, Republican leaders will pair him in favor of Senator Newberry. It is conceded at Washington that some of the Senators on the Republican side are weakening under the revelations made thus far during the debate, and administration leaders are fearful that they will need every possible vote to keep Newberry in his seat.

Senator La Follette, who made the motion in 1911, re-opening the Lorimer charges, which resulted in the unseating of the Illinois Senator in 1912 is preparing a speech on the Newberry case.

Voice of the People

FROM STEVENS POINT
[To the Editor] That recent article The Stalwart Political Blind Pig I want to see in The Capital Times again. That ought to be available in pamphlet form. The truth is all the people need but it is hard to get at, as it all costs money and vast sums are being spent to spread untruths and by so doing the minority rules and the majority consents and this in a country where we have the ballot. The American people through geographical location are unschooled in diplomacy and through the exercise of the ballot understand but little of American politics and still less of the economic question. They think they have the right to vote and that settles it. They do not regard the ballot the same as a contract. Most people when signing a contract want to read it over first. They want to know what they are signing. Not so with the ballot, which when in the hands of an unintelligent voter at once becomes a dangerous weapon striking at the very foundation of democracy, good deal like the gun that was loaded. It cuts the ground from beneath the voter while in the very act of registering his vote. We need truth and enlightenment of the right kind on public questions and world politics and economic cooperation. That's why I take The Capital Times and leads me to take this means of testifying to my appreciation of your courageous consecration to the cause of the common man and the public welfare.—Francis L. Glissendorf, Stevens Point, Wis.

SOME REFLECTIONS

[To the Editor] There appears to be more or less criticism lately, over the action of the United States Senate, pertaining to the Panama Canal. It is even intimated, that the honor of our country is at stake. What are the aims, what are the sources of the agitation? To throw a little more light on the situation an illustration may be in place: A, in order to shorten the distance of his products to the markets, buys a piece of land, cuts a ditch through it and pays for it with hard earned cash. This is right and proper, is it not? Very well, but now B, who has been looking on with folded arms, approaches A with a brazen face demanding that he, as a generous friend, should share the privileges with him and have permission to paddle his canoe in the same ditch whenever he felt like it. What an audacious and preposterous request on the part of a friend. Wilson held out fourteen lofty points and later trampled them under his feet, without seeming by reflecting on the honor of our country.

The trap is set once more to induce the U. S. again to enter the League, born out of hatred and egotism; for what purpose? What did America get out of the war? Besides planting billions of dollars on quicksand, she sacrificed the flower of her mankind. What would be her reward if she joined the League? In short, she would have the honor of protecting the loot of her allies and holding the bag once more for them.

China, from all indication had troubles of her own, and for some reason, forgot the day her interest became due. A strong wink to remind her of her sacred duty was the result. All well and good, but why not give the others a hint likewise, which owe dollars instead of cents? Silence! don't awake the baby! Uncle Sam is reminded, that in order to show his big heart and be a real benefactor to mankind it would be very fitting for him to cancel note, mortgage and interest. What next? If all this is the definition and fruit of democracy, humanity, justice and freedom, the principles for which we entered the war, the dictionary certainly needs a revision.—Geo. Barela.

CHINA ASKS CONTINUANCE OF "OPEN DOOR" POLICY, SAYS DR. SZE

"CHINA enters the arms conference whole heartedly, with full confidence in the motives of the American people in their attempt to bring about better conditions in the Pacific and the world generally," recently declared Dr. Alfred Sze, a member of the Chinese delegation at Washington.

"American policy toward China has always been friendly and constructive. We have a full appreciation of America's altruism toward Asia because one of the only two foreign policies which the United States has ever developed since it became a nation applies to Asia. I refer to the 'open door' policy of equal opportunity, which was announced originally by Mr. John Hay, secretary of state a quarter of a century ago.

"The 'open door' policy has been happily likened to your Monroe doctrine, which applies to the young republics of the new world. As I understand your Monroe doctrine, it simply means that the new republics of the new world are to be protected from foreign aggression while they work out their self-development.

"In assisting in this development of the republics of the new world, you do not claim monopolistic privileges to the exclusion of others. You are quite willing that all nations of the world shall compete with you in the business and industrial development of the American continent. Now that is a doctrine which we understand, and as we view your 'open door' policy we believe it means almost exactly the same thing.

"You have demonstrated the benefits of this doctrine in your relations with the countries of South America, with Mexico, with Cuba, with Canada. You have brought about a condition of peace among the nations of the new world that closely approaches the ideal.

"We believe that ultimately you will accomplish the same ideals among various nations that border on the Pacific, and in your efforts you can count upon the fullest possible assistance of China's four hundred million people, whose friendship you have and who trust you to a tremendous degree."

That China intends to cling to her pacifist ideals, but objects to being treated as the "sick man of Asia," was disclosed by the envoy.

Thoughts In Season

By PROF. J. F. CRAWFORD

OUR DYING NEW ENGLAND FAMILIES

A GOOD many people believe that our national stock is deteriorating, and that the biggest problem we have is not that of securing just human relations, but that of maintaining sound human stock. Perhaps they are right; but some of the evidence they use does not seem to be convincing.

Take the old New England families, for example. We are told that they are dying out. It is in point, I think, to raise two questions about that. First, are they really dying out? Second, what if they are?

It is very difficult to get complete genealogies of any American families. There are few or none that are really complete except in those branches that carry some definite family name. But the family name is transmitted only by male children. In the first generation only half the married children carry the name, in the second only one-quarter, in the third only one-eighth, and so on. If we take any single branch of the family like that for several generations, the chances are very great against its continuing unbroken. But any of the other branches would equally well carry on the family, for they inherit the family blood just as truly even when they do not inherit the family name. The "family" as commonly thought of is an arbitrary grouping. Unless a very few families continue to intermarry very closely with each other—and in that case there are special causes of decadence—it is practically impossible to keep track of all the descendants of all the marriages outside the original "family." New England stock is scattered westward through every state to the Pacific and beyond. Why should we think, because the line with just the name that interests us has dwindled, or because the home town has been flooded with immigrants, that the New England stock has been lost?

But even if it has, what of it? Suppose the New England families have for some reason been less prolific or have exercised more birth control than others. Are they the only people with capacity? Why might not other people, if they had the same history as the Yankees, the same combination of opportunities and obstacles, the same incentives, have done as well? Was it entirely due to the New Englanders, or may it have been fundamentally due to New England, with all that that meant in their past and present?

This Halloween a young lady whom I know attended a masquerade party in an eastern women's college where ancestors are valued. Each participant was required to dress like some famous ancestor, and she represented Eve. Her costume may have been startling, but in principle she was right. All of our families go back a good way. We have a lot of ancestors. And our families are very much more mixed than the most careful pedigree can show.

I don't think we have lost the New Englanders; but I wouldn't be hopelessly cast down if we had. What we do need to preserve, subject to needed change, is the New England life and institutions and spirit. We need to bend every energy toward the saving and reproducing of the New England values—though not of course those values alone. In these days of complexity and uncertainty we need profoundly some of the best New England traits. But a scarcely think—do you?—that the select New England families are the only ones that can grow these traits.

A Smile or Two

A small boy, aged four, had just communicated the fact to his uncle that he had started on his school career.

"Indeed," said his uncle; "why, you must be the youngest there."

"Oh no," answered the youngster in a yorly manner, "there's another gentleman who comes in a perambulator."

A southerner and a northerner were discussing the remoteness of certain backwoods districts in their respective sections.

"Why," said the northerner, "there are towns in the Berkshires that don't know to this day how the battle of Manila Bay came out."

"That's nothing," countered the southerner, "there are hill regions down my way where they don't know the Revolution is over."

"Hm," mused the northerner. "Then there'll surely be something doing when they get word that the Civil war is on."

The man and the bride were among the fifty or so men and brides awaiting their turns at the marriage bureau in the municipal building, New York.

"I'm half a dollar short," said the man to the city official who receives the $2 fee. "What'll I do?"

"Sorry I can't help you, buddy," was the answer, "but the law does not permit any rate cutting. You'll have to get the money somehow."

An hour later the man and the bride were back. They had the required $2.

"Where'd you get it?" inquired the city officer. "Borrow from friends?"

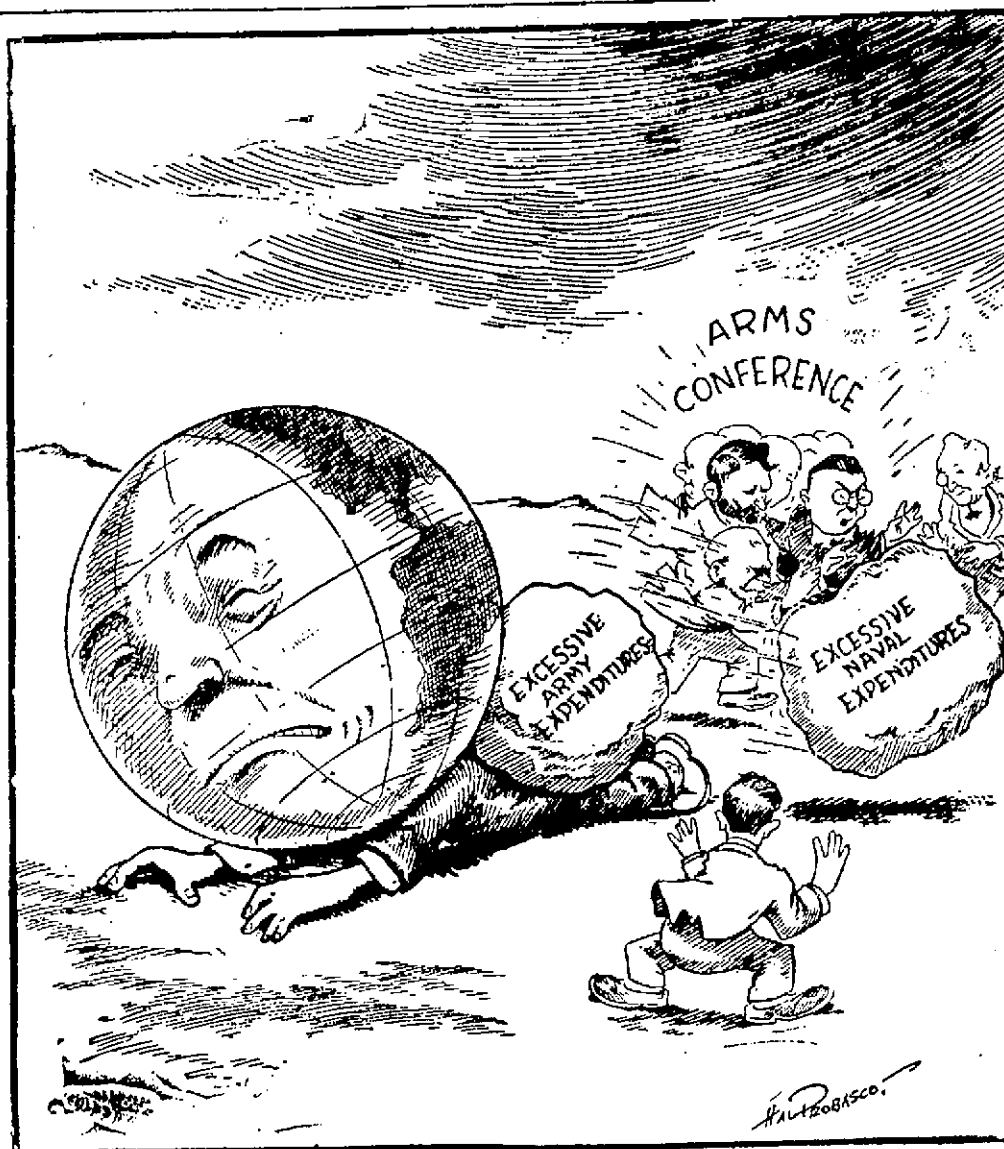

"Now," said the man. "We didn't know nobody to borrow from. So we went out and hooked the wedding ring."

"The road to hell is paved with good intentions," says the proverb, but, as a modern politician has remarked, the beauty of the pavement does not improve the destination.

A resident of Chicago opened his front door and blew three short blasts on a police whistle. Twenty policemen appeared at the door almost instantly.

"Goah, this is embarrassing," said the resident of Chi, when he saw the large mob of blue-coats, "I only wanted a quart."

B. B. Clarke Again Discusses The Present Railroad Situation

[By B. B. Clarke in the American Thresherman]

The editorial in the October issue of this publication, criticizing the attitude of the railways of the country in general, seems to have attracted more than ordinary attention, judging from the requests for extra copies of that issue and from comments received.

It is without doubt a matter which should be taken up by all the manufacturers, their associations, and everybody else, and sifted to the bottom, and the facts laid bare, for the railways are public servants and are almost as essential as air and sunshine. We could not get along without the railroads, and everybody wants them to have a square deal, but the public also wants a square deal at the hands of the railroads, something which it has seldom if ever received.

The editor has never been directly in the railroad service, but he has been in close touch with their manner of doing business for more than forty years, and in all that time the fact has always stuck out like the horns of a Texas steer, that they have been the smallest potatoes in the business bin.

The Apostle Paul vouchsafed this gospel in his letter to the Galatians: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." If the railways of the United States have not been guilty of sowing the wind in many ways for the past forty years, then history has made the record wrong. They were verily born in sin. Go back forty or fifty years, search the records and you will find that a large per cent of the railways were organized wind-bags, inflated to the limit, and their stocks juggled and so manipulated that the public was robbed time and again almost without number, by the Goulds and ghoulis of railway history. Take the Washah for an example. Thousands of working men who pounded in the spikes and made this road possible were strung along, month after month, waiting for the pay that never came, and when the management were unable to bleed these toiling men longer, they placed this road in bankruptcy, that the same crowd of high-binders might force the stock down to nothing and then buy it in under the hammer. Did anybody ever hear of a Gould or a Vanderbilt going through bankruptcy or into the hands of a receiver?

Take the old original "Big Four," which runs from Cincinnati to Chicago, by using the lines of the old Lake Erie and Western from La Fayette to Tempieton, and the Illinois Central from Kankakee the rest of the way in—and it was known of all men to be the biggest hog for its size in the pen, charging four cents a mile for passenger traffic long after other roads had cut down to three cents a mile. The stock threat of the "adjuster," when stock had been killed or human beings crippled, was that not until the Supreme Court had ruled against that road would it ever pay a dollar. The poor man who lost his only cow was sneered at, and many of the most unscrupulous "jack-leg" lawyers, of which there used to be a legion in the Old Hoosier State, were hired to defend this crowd of high-binders, and many times were paid with a piece of postboard entitled them to ride on certain trains of this road. This is history, coming under the personal observation of this magazine, then publishing a "very weekly newspaper" in Colfax, Indiana.

Take the Pennsylvania, the "Beau Brummel" of red tape and military autocracy, the road whose conductor on one occasion forced the writer of this article to sign his name three times, to prevent taking up a mileage book upon which there was a refund of ten dollars, out of pure and unadulterated cunning, just to show his authority towards the public in the same spirit in which it had been practiced upon him by his superiors. This road, whose officers in the years gone were more crooked than its celebrated horseshoe curve, when the Interstate Commerce act forced everybody to pay alike, when no deadheads and under-strappers in political power could be manipulated, had annual passes enough turned in by their henchmen to make more than a wheel-barrow load. That's some more history of the past.

You can hardly find an official of the railways, either of high or low degree, who cares a whoop, way down in his soul, whether the railways make the grade or not. They hold their officials down closer, requiring them to do more in the traffic department to get business, on less pay, than any other branch of commercial business in the country, until the war act which shot everybody's salary far beyond normal. I have of my own knowledge and personal contact found representatives of even our own "Northwestern Railway" forced to spend a part of their own salary in upholding the standing of this great philanthropic highway, to prevent appearing like a "dirty deuce in a clean pack." I have worked with the officers of this railway to secure business for them and advertising for my own publications, and I have received just such treatment at the hands of this road, as this and all other roads accord their employees, and if necessary I'll recite chapter and verse. The little business, which the editor founded twenty-three years ago on a capital of two hundred dollars, now has representatives in New York, Chicago and Indianapolis, and if the editor had ever stooped to the little things to secure business, like handicapping his traveling men in the same way all the railways circumscribe the acts of their men, he would indeed feel ashamed of such a record.

All of these generalities are offered our readers, for the purpose of proving the selfishness, the hog-ghostness and unfairness with which the railways proceed in all things. It's the proof of St. Paul's admonition that "Whoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The railways have sown the seeds of unfairness in their dealings with the public so much so that not only the public is aware of this, but their own employees are likewise aware of it, and their unconcern and disloyalty to their employers is the result. If the railways rob the public with one hand and refuse to share the spoils with those who conduct their business and withhold from them with the other hand, about how much loyalty would you expect from employees under such conditions?

Says Study of Minor Prisons is Necessary

The attitude and policy of minor penal institutions determine the percentage that go to the penitentiaries. This is the belief of Lewis Harthill, chief of police of Minneapolis in 1917 and 1918, who will give an illustrated lecture on crime conditions, speaking in the high school auditorium Friday at 8 p. m.

"Until the public assumes their part of their responsibility in taking they are never going to be corrected. A better community and better homes are the hopes of us all and the information that I obtained as chief of police will, if given to the public, at least help to bring that about."
